Harco Man is Fatally Injured

William Boone, 79, Dies After Crash on Rt. 34

Two Eldorado Youths Hurt in Second Sunday Mishap

A Harco man lost his life in one of two bad wrecks in the county Sunday.

Dead is William Boone, 79-year-old retired miner of Harco. He was fatally injured during the noon hour Sunday in a two-car rear-end collision on Route 34 at the Harco crossing two miles west of Galatia.

In the other crash, two Eldorado youths received hospital treatment when their car, containing six, left Route 45 at the Venice club curve at Muddy at 5:30 a. m. yesterday.

Boone died at 11:30 last night at Harrisburg hospital, about 11 hours after the crash.

State Policeman Michael Taggart, who with State Policeman Arthur F. Athmer covered the Route 34 accident, said that Boone was driving alone and that his auto figured in a collision with one driven by Gordon B. Kern, 18, of Benton. Kern and his companion, Kay Rodgers, 17, Benton, returned to Benton with minor injuries.

Taggart said their investigation showed that Boone was travelling west and made a left turn at the Harco crossing as the Kern car was approaching from the west. Boone was driving a 1956 model car which ran off into a ditch on the right side of the road following the crash. Boone was in a 1941 model auto.

Boone was rushed to the Harrisburg hospital.

His body was moved last night to the Harrisburg funeral home.

Today Coroner Elmer M. Gibbons was making his investigation into the accident. He had not set a date for the inquest.

Mr. Boone was born in Muhlenberg County, Ky., July 24, 1876, the son of James and Evelyn Boone. He was a member of the Baptist church of Nelson, Ky.

Rites Wednesday

Survivors include his wife, Lissie, and the following children: Mrs. Leona VanBibber, Englewood, Calif.; Mrs. Clara Bell McNeal, Lake Orion, Mich.; Ernest Boone, Farmington, W. Va.; Mrs. Lockie Merritt, Pontiac, Mich.; Louie of Dearborn, Mich.; Robert, Harrisburg, RFD 1, Boyd, Freeman Spur, Ill.; and Mrs. Emma Butler of Harvey; 14 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren; three brothers, John of Rockport, Ky.; Jesse, Evansville, Ind.; and Fred Boone of Equality, Ky.; and two sisters, Mrs. Berdie Eudaley, Rockport, Ky., and Mrs. Clemmie Casabire, Central City, Ky.

Funeral services will be held in the chapel of Harrisburg funeral home Wednesday at 3 p. m. and burial will be in Lindale Memorial Gardens.

Prefers Charges After Crash

State Policeman Guthrie Alexander today preferred charges against Glen Holt, 23, of Eldorado, following the Route 45 crash early yesterday. He was charged with reckless driving and driving while under the influence of alcohol in informations filed by State's Attorney Robert V. Wilson in county court.

Reports were that Holt was driving an auto belonging to Tom Falk of Eldorado, that Falk's son, Freddie, 21, Rex Long, 19, Junior Alexander, 19, Donald Ray Pack, 17, and Owen Brill, 18, were in the car.

The auto, it was reported, was travelling toward Harrisburg and failed to make the Venice curve, travelling 101 yards from the pavement into a field. The car was demolished.

Pack received treatment for concussion and Brill for a broken arm at the Harrisburg hospital. They later were taken to Ferrell hospital in Eldorado.

Funeral Services Held Today for Andrew Slaton, 78

Andrew Slaton, 78, of West Harrisburg, died at 2 a. m. Sunday at the Harrisburg hospital. Death was due to complications.

Mr. Slaton's wife preceded him in death eight years ago. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Eva Feazel of West Raymond street, and a stepson, Herman Head, also of Harrisburg.

Funeral services were held today at 2 p. m. at the Turner funeral home. Rev. Waldo Sheldon officiated and burial was in the Dorrisville cemetery.

County Historical Society to Receive Lincoln Picture at Meeting Tuesday Night

The March meeting of the Saline County Historical society will be held at the Mitchell-Carnegie library, in Harrisburg, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

There will be a report of the Nominating committee and a presentation of Ayre's Abraham Lincoln by Ray Altire. This picture is a copy of the one Mr. Lincoln used in his campaign for the presidency of the United States in 1860. It is like the picture that Charles F. Carpenter, secretary of state, has presented to counties throughout the state and which is to hang in the county court houses. Mr. Altire talked with Mr. Carpenter when he was in Harrisburg and he agreed to present a picture to the Saline County Historical society and last week Mr. Carpenter's representative delivered the picture. The society is very pleased with the gift and will display it in the club room.

The program for the evening will be a recording of a talk given by Mrs. Talitha E. Aaron in 1950 and recorded by Vachel Davis. The talk, "It Happened in Old Eldorado," tells of the founding and settlement of Eldorado, and the joys and hardships of the pioneer families. Historical research was a hobby with Mrs. Aaron and she probably knew more than any other about the history of the community.

Following this talk there will be two short historical motion pictures: "Our Country's Flag," and "Our Living Declaration of Independence."

The social hour will be in charge of Mrs. Louis Aaron.

W. W. Damron, Well Known Attorney, Dies

W. W. Damron, 72, U. S. Commissioner, and prominent Harrisburg attorney and former judge, died at 10:50 last night in the Lightner hospital. Death followed a lingering illness.

Atty. Damron was born in Vienna April 12, 1883, the son of Almus G. and Edith Kuykendall Damron. In 1910 he was admitted to practice law, and in 1914 he came to Harrisburg, where he had lived as a child, to establish a law office.

He served as city judge of Harrisburg in 1916, serving until 1918, the year in which he was elected county judge for a term of four years. In 1926 he again was elected to the office of county judge. From 1936 to 1941 he served again as city judge of Harrisburg. He was appointed U. S. Commissioner on Nov. 13, 1953, for a four year term. Damron was appointed Chief Justice of the Court of Claims on June 27, 1941, and again on June 23, 1947.

He was a 32nd degree Mason and a member of the Elks, Shriners, the East St. Louis Consistory and Ainal Temple.

He was married to Cecil Skelsher Nov. 28, 1925.

Besides his wife he leaves one sister, Mrs. Marion Hayes, Los Angeles, Calif.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Turner funeral home. Rev. William Burroughs, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will officiate and burial will be in Sunset Hill.

Palbearers will be Atty. K. C. Ronalds, A. M. Hetherington, W. E. Musgrove, Orlando Reitz, Waldo Turner of Evansville and Atty. Harry Flanders of Eldorado.

It is requested that the sending of flowers be omitted.

Lobbyist Admits Campaign Offer To Senator

Contribution Hinged on Favorable Vote on Gas Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil lobbyist John M. Neff admitted today he had offered a campaign contribution for Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper if the Iowa Republican was "in favor" of the natural gas bill.

Neff made the admission after Wendell T. Edson, Storm Lake, Iowa, attorney, told a select committee Neff offered to contribute $2,500 for Hickenlooper's campaign — or any other state GOP fund — if Hickenlooper would vote for the natural gas bill.

Neff, following Edson to the witness stand, confirmed the substance of Edson's testimony. But said he could not recall specifically that $2,500 was mentioned.

Neff is the Lexington, Mo., lobbyist-lawyer for Superior Oil Co. of California, who made the $2,500 campaign contribution which Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.) rejected during debate on the natural gas bill.

Previous testimony has indicated that Neff made inquiries in five states, including Iowa, to determine the views of senators on the gas bill.

A "Casual Acquaintance"

But Edson's testimony was the first direct statement that Neff proposed to make a campaign contribution contingent on how a senator voted on the gas bill.

Edson said nothing came of Neff's offer after he had told Neff that Hickenlooper would be "shocked" by any such arrangement. Edson said Neff made the offer after he had told Neff he was a "casual acquaintance" of Hickenlooper.

Hickenlooper voted for the gas bill. Case against it when it was passed by the Senate early last month. President Eisenhower vetoed it because of what he called "arrogant" lobbying activities on behalf of the bill by a small segment of the oil-gas industry.

Neff's testimony ended a select committee's nine days of public hearings into whether an improper attempt was made to influence Case's vote on the natural gas bill. The committee now will prepare a report for the Senate on the incident, which has prompted a full-scale investigation of lobbying activities.

Bern Voters Reject Woman Suffrage

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Male citizens voted for the 24th time here Sunday to keep women out of politics.

They rejected by a vote of 62,971 to 52,929 a law which would have introduced woman suffrage in the canton of Bern.

Two Grass Fires

Two runs were made to grass fires over the weekend. At 12:50 p. m. Saturday a grass fire was extinguished in the 1300 block of South Granger. Sunday at 2:10 p. m. a field was extinguished at West Raymond and Marsh.

Communist Peace Only Precarious Truce, Pope Says

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Pius XII warned diplomats Sunday that a Communist "peace" is only a "precarious truce during which they await the social and economic collapse of the other peoples."

The Pope addressed diplomats from 42 nations in a mass audience at which they paid tribute to his life-long efforts for peace and congratulated him on his 80th birthday and the 17th anniversary of his reign.

The Pope did not mention communism by name in his French language address but he made a brief and clear reference to the Communist "peace offensive."

"Such formulas as 'national unity' or 'social progress' should not deceive us," he said. "For militant materialism, 'peacetime' represents but a truce, a very precarious truce, during which it awaits and the social and economic collapse of the other peoples."

Electrocuted While Repairing Antenna

CASEY, Ill. (AP) — Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Asa Johnson, 45, electrocuted at his home near here Saturday while repairing a television antenna atop the house.

Cumberland County Coroner Dale McElravy said Johnson fell from a ladder after touching an electrical utility line connected to the house.

McElravy ruled at an inquest that Johnson was electrocuted.

Sen. Eastland Target of Civil Rights Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delegates to a National Civil Rights Conference headed for the Capitol today to press their congressmen for enactment of civil rights legislation.

The mood of the delegates — 1,500 of them — was set Sunday by a Negro leader who called Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.), staunch segregationist, a "stinking albatross" around the neck of the Democratic Party.

The delegates set aside four hours today for contacting their congressmen on the civil rights issue.

Clarence Mitchell, director of the Washington Bureau of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, told the delegates not to let northern Democrats blame their southern colleagues for failures in passing civil rights bills.

"Tell those Democrats," he told the assembly's opening session "that if they keep a stinking albatross like Senator Eastland around their necks they can kiss our votes good-bye."

Eastland said he had "no comment" on Mitchell's statement.

The Senate last week confirmed Eastland as chairman of its powerful Judiciary Committee, which acts on civil rights legislation. The Senate acted in accordance with its traditional seniority system.

Representatives to the conference were invited from 52 national religious, labor, civic, fraternal and veterans' organizations. Both white and Negro delegates are attending.

Eden Attempts to Head Off Middle East War; Israeli-Egyptian Clash

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli and Egyptian forces engaged in an hour and a half fight near Kissufim along the Gaza strip border in the latest flareup in the tension-ridden Middle East today.

Israeli sources said Egyptian forces opened fire on an Israeli patrol near Kissufim. They said the Israeli patrol returned the fire, with the exchange continuing for about 1 1/2 hours. No casualties were reported.

Earlier, an Egyptian military spokesman said that Egyptian anti-aircraft guns fired on an Israeli plane which flew over the Gaza strip this morning.

Sunday, Syrian gunners blasted an Israeli police boat on the Sea of Galilee and killed at least three policemen. The Syrians handed over the bodies of two of the policemen and the captured boat Sunday night. The body of a third policeman was handed over today, the Israeli Foreign Ministry announced. A fourth policeman still is missing.

Meeting in Cairo

In another development, Israeli sources reported that Jordanian infiltrators attempted to derail the Jerusalem-Tel Aviv train by removing a number of rails. Workmen reached the scene before the regularly scheduled train arrived and repaired the sabotage.

Walter Eytan, director general of the Israeli Foreign Office, summoned Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, chief of staff of the United Nations truce supervisory organization, to a conference today.

Meanwhile, Egyptian Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser warmly greeted Syrian President Shukry El Kuwaty when he arrived in Cairo for an Arab conference of anti-Baghdad Pact states. Arab sources said King Saud of Saudi Arabia would arrive in Cairo Tuesday for sessions among the Egyptian-Syrian-Saudi Arabian heads of state in what amounts to a "council of war."

But he refused to discuss whether Britain will take further steps, including reducing or cutting off its financial subsidies to Jordan.

He left that door open, however, by replying to all further questions from the House with the statement that "these are matters which we are discussing with our Allies."

Apply Pressure

Even without trying to overthrow his government, the rebels could apply pressure to force a toughening of the attitude towards anti-British moves by Arab nations. And the demands came from a number of conservatives.

The same group of 40-odd Conservative members of parliament who threatened to stop last year's British retreat from the Suez Canal zone stormed into action today protesting the Jordanian attempt.

Parliamentary sources said "urgent exchanges" were taking place between London and Washington over the Middle East crisis, but Julian Amery, another of the rebels, said Anglo-American consultation was no substitute for policy.

"Britain should be prepared to act for herself and give a lead to her allies," he said.

Ag Dep't Warns of Further Farm Losses as Vote Nears on Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators today began the last series of speeches and cloak-room maneuvers before voting on politically-potent omnibus farm aid bill.

The Senate planned to begin voting on the bill Thursday. Both administration and Democratic forces predicted victory by a slim margin.

The crux of the issue is eight lines of text calling for return of rigid price props at 80 per cent of parity.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland Sunday would only go so far as to say he "sure hopes" the administration forces will be able to defeat the price supports provision.

But he added on the CBS television program "Face the Nation" that a "realistic appraisal" indicates that as few as four votes may decide the issue.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden announced today that Britain is withdrawing 15 British officers from the Arab Legion to show Britain's "resentment and regret" at Jordan's recent conduct.

Eden, taking personal command of Britain's foreign policy in an effort to head off threatening war in the Middle East, made his statement to the House of Commons where a growing rebellion from his own and opposition party members confronted him with a possibly serious political crisis.

Conservative Party rebels had flatly demanded a British crackdown in the Middle East and an end to "appeasement" following the summary ouster of the Arab Legion's longtime commander, Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, by Jordan's King Hussein last week. Although it ousted Glubb, Jordan retained other British officers in its legion.

Hold Key Positions

Eden told the Commons that "officers in executive command cannot be asked to continue" in a position where they have "no real authority."

Eden's statement was Britain's rejoinder to Jordan's action in firing Glubb last Friday.

The 15 British officers yanked out all held key positions in the Arab Legion, backbone of the Jordan armed forces.

Eden said some 30 or 60 other British officers serving with the Arab Legion mostly were not affected by the pull-out order because they held "lesser posts."

Eden said the situation caused by Jordan's breakdown from British military leadership was "very serious indeed."

But he refused to discuss whether Britain will take further steps, including reducing or cutting off its financial subsidies to Jordan.

He left that door open, however, by replying to all further questions from the House with the statement that "these are matters which we are discussing with our Allies."

No Curtain For Kindness

In keeping with America's best traditions, President Eisenhower proposes to help European peoples suffering bitterly from the severest cold spell the continent has known in the 20th century.

This is no empty gesture. Already the State Department has requested the ambassadors of 19 countries to rush surveys of emergency relief needs. The President's offer, of course, was principally to send surplus food abroad. But it also would be willing to ship blankets, clothing and fuel as needed.

It is noteworthy that in extending this offer the United States has chosen to ignore the barrier of the Iron Curtain. Romania, Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia are included.

Politically and militarily, the Curtain is real enough. But in the humanitarian terms we are proud to live by, it does not exist. We do these things because we believe in them, not to impress the world. Yet it would be nice if some of our doubters in Asia and elsewhere would take note.

New Role for Stalin

Editorial By Bruce Blossat
The body of Joseph Stalin, carefully preserved, lies alongside that of Lenin in a great tomb in Moscow's Red Square. In a tightly sealed compartment behind a thick glass partition, it presumably is safe from despoilers.

Not so the memory of Stalin, nor "Stalinism." At the 20th Soviet Communist party congress, Kremlin leaders from Nikita Khrushchev on down slashed hard at the Stalin legend. They assailed the "personality cult" of the dictator, condemned specific policies he had advocated, and generally sought to reduce his stature in Russian eyes.

Actually, this process of demoting Stalin from the hero caste has been going on erratically ever since he died. In late 1953 his birthday was passed over without mention. A year later he drew just a few lines and a single picture in Pravda. At other times he has been glorified as he was when he was alive.

If this backing and filling indicated internal Kremlin disagreement, it may now have been resolved. Certainly there is no force and unanimity in the current blast against Stalin.

That this should be happening points up one of the truly ironic aspects of totalitarian government. Not even the master himself is secure from the tyranny of the changing "line."

A new hand, Khrushchev's, is grasping for the scepter today. His hold on it is not yet firm, hence the continued talk of a "ruling committee." But no one doubts that he heads the committee. And very likely it is he who is stage-managing the demotion of Stalin.

Soviet history is constantly being rewritten, of course, to conform to endless changes in the party line. But the attacks on Stalin more is involved than just the facts that new times and a new line prevail.

Any ambitious would-be dictator needs a scapegoat, a whipping boy, a repository for his errors. For Stalin it was Leon Trotsky, once a Bolshevik hero but later exiled as a traitor.

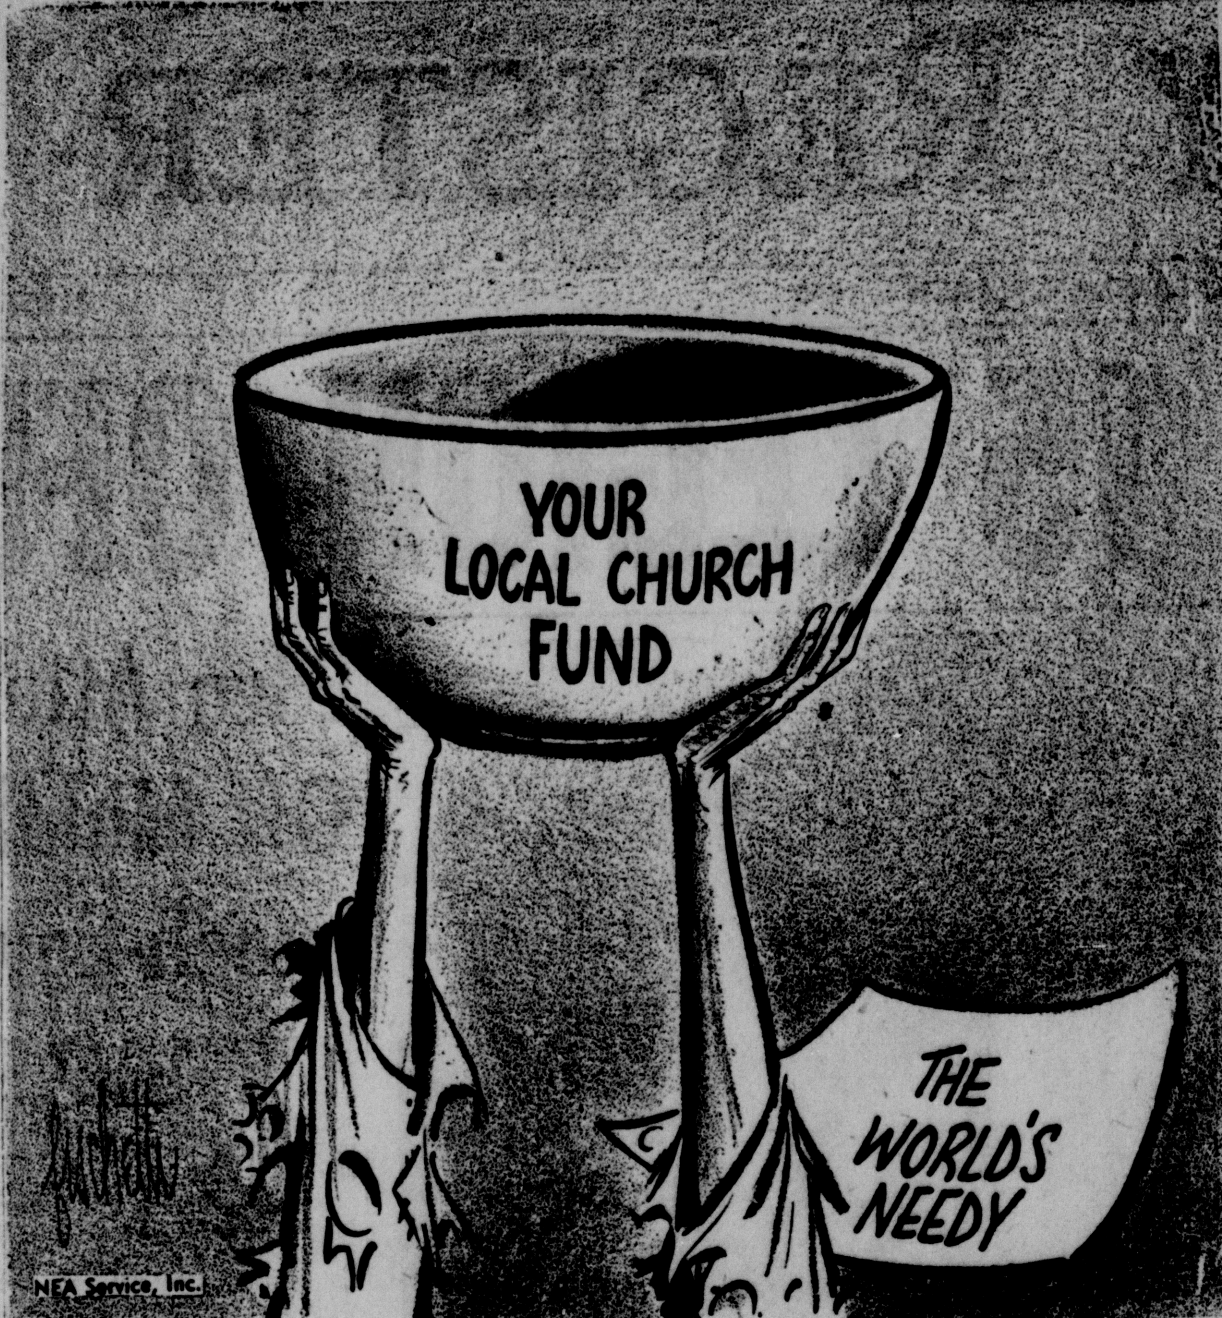

Stalin not only blamed him for many of his mistakes but used his blackened memory as a device for consolidating his power. In the famous purge trials of the mid-1930's, the epithets "foreign provocateur and Trotskyite" were hurled most often against his hapless victims.

We do not yet know how far the destruction of the Stalin legend will proceed. It may depend on how badly and how often the Khrushchev "committee" regime needs a scapegoat. It may depend on how powerful Khrushchev himself becomes. But clearly the people are being attuned to the notion that Stalin might have been another Trotsky.

Already we have heard enough of this ghoulish performance to realize that in Moscow the Kremlin does not shrink from the slogan "Today's hero is tomorrow's villain."

The population of suburban areas increased 35 per cent from 1940 to 1950, while the cities they surround grew only 13 per cent, according to U. S. Census figures.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
GOP Senators At Sixes And Sevens On Farm Bill; Adlai Using Will-O'-The-Wisp Tactics Against Kefauver In New Hampshire; Stevenson Steals Kefauver's Top Man.

WASHINGTON. — Republican senators met behind closed doors the other day to settle the farm question. What happened is supposed to be a GOP secret, but this column can report they left the question more unsettled than ever.

In fact, the top Republican on the Senate Agriculture committee, Vermont's curly-haired George Aiken, not only left the question but left the meeting. He walked out in a huff during an impassioned plea for high farm supports by Minnesota's big Ed Thye.

Both Aiken and Thye were raised on farms, and both still look happier in overalls. On farm legislation, however, they are just as opposite a chicken farmer and a fruit farmer — which they both are. Aiken, the fruit farmer, believes devoutly in Secretary of Agriculture Benson's flexible farm supports. Thye, a chicken farmer, is just as adamant in favor of rigid, 90 per cent parity payments.

At the closed-door session, Thye warned his fellow Republicans that the Benson plan would remain an issue with farmers for years to come and would be held against the GOP. It was at this point that Aiken, scowling darkly, stomped out of the room.

Earlier, another farm senator, North Dakota's long, lean Milt Young, sounded a warning against the Benson program. He claimed that flexible price supports, if continued, would have disastrous political repercussions for Republicans in the farm belt. This observation was seconded by South Dakota's Sen. Karl Mundt.

WILL IKE VETO?

Young urged his fellow Republicans to desert the administration and vote for the Democrat-sponsored, high-parity farm bill. The only thing the Senate could do to relieve the farmers this year, he pleaded, would be to pass 90 per cent price supports.

In answer to an objection that this would pile up staggering surpluses, Young pointed out that the Agriculture Department has acreage limitations on the basic crops. "There will be the same number of acres at 90 per cent," he said, "as under flexible supports."

Iowa's stern Sen. Bourke Hickel noted that corn farmers habitually ignore the acreage restrictions and dump their excess corn on the open market. He suggested that the solution wasn't flexible supports, however, but more realistic acreage allotments.

At one point, Sen. Charlie Potter of Michigan asked whether the President would veto a high-support farm bill. Senate GOP Leader Bill Knowland of California suggested it would depend on the language of the bill. "The President never makes a statement about a bill until he sees it," said Knowland.

Note — Instead of adopting a GOP policy on farm legislation, the Republicans ended up in more disagreement than ever. All they seemed to agree upon was that the final farm bill would be a patchwork of amendments.

ADLAI AND ESTES

Adlai Stevenson is waging a very smart remote-control campaign to win New Hampshire away from Sen. Estes Kefauver in the coming presidential primary.

Stevenson is playing a game of heads-I-win-tails-you-lose. He is pouring in money and waging a vigorous campaign against Kefauver without appearing to do so. This will enable him to claim no credit for a victory without trying. If Kefauver loses.

The Stevenson forces are outspending the Kefauverites two to one — printing sample ballots, distributing campaign literature and hiring campaign help. They have the backing of most labor leaders and Democratic regulars, who were whipped by Kefauver in the 1952 primary and are now out for revenge.

Stevenson's undercover campaign manager in New Hampshire ironically is a Kefauver protégé, National Committeeman Henry Sullivan. Kefauver got him his job in 1952, but Sullivan later climbed aboard the Stevenson bandwagon and is now running the campaign against his former benefactor.

Housewives' Joke—The 40-Hour Week

NEW YORK — — Some of the nation's housewives want to know who is lucky enough to work that 40-hour week.

And as for all that talk about the 30-hour week to come, well... One study showed many women average a 14-hour work day, which if you counted Saturdays and Sundays would make a 98-hour work week. Some of them, mothers of three or more small children, averaged two loads of wash six days a week and did their ironing between 9 p. m. and midnight.

These facts were derived from interviews with young families by Ladies' Home Journal researchers. A sample of 48 families interviewed for the publication's series on how young America lives, showed that the mother of three or four children averages a 14-hour day and often works 17. Eighty-two per cent said husbands helped with the children; 39 per cent said hubby gave a hand with both children and the housework; 18 per cent said their spouses helped not at all at home.

Three Children Die in Fire

FREEMONT, Ill. (AP) — Funerals for three children who died from smoke inhalation in a fire in their home.

Alice Marie Egda, 4, and her half-brother, Richard Lee Brady, 7, were found dead in their mother's apartment after the fire late Friday night.

Mark Egda, 5, died at Deaconess hospital here Sunday. The mother, a waitress, was away at the time of the blaze. Fourteen year old Judith Bishop who was minding the children was found unconscious at the door, but she recovered.

The father, an Air Force sergeant, returned here from a base in Georgia after the tragedy.

Dallas Housewife On Gem Hunt Finds 15.31 ct. Diamond

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP) — A 40-year-old Dallas housewife picked up what looked like a piece of glass near here Sunday—and it turned out to be a 15.31 carat diamond worth an estimated $15,000.

Mrs. Arthur Lee Parker had paid $1.50 to hunt for stones in a three acre tract near here called the Crater of Diamonds. What she found is the largest gem ever discovered on the North American continent by an individual.

Mrs. Parker, the mother of two children and an amateur rockhound, said "It easily could have been mistaken for a piece of broken glass. In fact, I think someone might have found it earlier and thrown it away, thinking it was glass."

Under admission terms at the crater, any diamond worth 5 carats is "finders-keepers." On larger stones the finder must pay a royalty of 25 per cent of the value over 5 carats to the owners and operators of the tourist enterprise.

HUNGER TABLETS

Newest of formulas recently brought to light by medical science is HUNGER TABLETS, a preparation to take fat off hips and waistline.

For many who have tried "reducing treatments" and who have lost faith in them because of exaggerated claims and ineffectual results. HUNGER TABLETS bring new hope. Simply take 2 tablets before each meal and see if your clothes don't fit and look more attractive, especially around fat spots such as hips, waist, abdomen, etc. No strict diet is required. Insist on HUNGER TABLETS at your druggist. A 16 day supply for less than 19c per day. Guaranteed.

Reveal Sites for Missile Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force today revealed the sites for four new guided missile bases.

They are Lockbourne Air Force Base, Ohio; Bunker Hill Air Force Base, Ind.; and at sites near Peoria, Ill., and Kirksville, Mo.

The Air Force told of the sites at a hearing before the House Armed Services committee on the pending two-billion-dollar construction bill.

The Air Force declined, for security reasons, to give any further details.

Aged Man Dies in Log Cabin Fire

ATLANTA, Ill. (AP) — Andy Clawson, about 85, died in a fire early today at his log cabin near U. S. 66 south of here.

A tourist discovered the fire about 3:30 a. m. The Atlanta fire department put out the flames and found Clawson's body just inside the door. Firemen said Clawson, who was crippled, apparently was overcome by heat and smoke before he could get out of the cabin. They said an oil stove probably started the fire.

Refugees Report Hundreds Executed By Communist Romania

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Communist Romania has executed hundreds of persons since last autumn and dumped their bodies in the streets, refugee sources said here today.

The sources said there was no apparent political or economic motive for the killings.

One source estimated that at least 2,800 persons had been killed since the executions started.

Rhee Refuses Nomination For Third Term

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Aging President Syngman Rhee unexpectedly turned down his party's nomination for a third term today and then hedged on the decision when his supporters begged him to accept it.

The 60-year-old Rhee sent his rejection to the Liberal Party convention only a few hours after it had endorsed his nomination unanimously.

"I have decided not to run this year," he said.

The party refused to believe it and immediately sent a 50-man delegation to the presidential mansion to persuade Rhee to change his mind.

He told them to go out and "collect public opinion" on the choice of a candidate.

"I would like to retire and have some other more energetic and younger person than I take over the presidency," he told the party.

Both American and Korean political figures speculated that Rhee's announcement merely was a move to gain popular support and be drafted by the party.

He gave as his reasons his age, the fact that there is no precedent for a third term and his failure to achieve national unification during his eight years in office.

If the decision is final it would throw the Republic of Korea's political scene into a turmoil. No figure of Rhee's stature has risen in either of the two major political parties.

Just a Corpse at Twilight

By Robert Martin

XXII

The sheriff drove back sullenly and didn't speak until we'd reached his office and were seated at his desk. Then he said petulantly, "I ain't in the mood for any more rummy. Pay me what you owe me."

I laid a dollar and a dime on the desk. He pocketed it, and then took a rig of keys from the top of the desk, unlocked a drawer, and leaned down, grunting. He came up with something in his closed hand. "There she is," he said, and opened his hand, revealing a small gray lead pellet. "That's the slug Doc Jarrett dug out of Alice. All we gotta do is find the rifle that fired it and we got Alice's killer."

I looked at the little misshapen lump, a tiny chunk of lead that carried death, and I thought of another chunk, a trifle larger, that had imbedded itself in the front seat of my car. "Take good care of it, Sheriff," I said.

"I will," he said impatiently. "Keep it locked up right here." He dropped the bullet back into the desk drawer.

He held the cigar stub delicately between two fingers, puffed slowly, and regarded me silently for a moment. Then he said, "You're tough, but I'm tougher, because I've been around a lot longer and there's not much I ain't seen. This business about Alice is strictly my problem—but I could use you, if you'd cooperate."

"How?"

"Tell me the real reason you're interested in Alice and what happened to her."

"I told you. I wanted her permission to do the autopsy on her husband."

"You claim you got that, not that it's legal. Why mess around now?"

"I was shot at, twice. I think it connects with Alice Osborn's death."

"What else?" he asked softly.

For an instant I found it difficult to meet his narrow gaze, but I did, and I said, "I think maybe it's my fault that Alice Osborn was killed. I feel I owe her something."

He waved the cigar stub impatiently. "So you're just a knight in what the poets call shiny armor, is that it? I think your tin suit is rusty. I think you got other reasons."

"Maybe."

"All right. We'll leave it like that. If somebody killed Alice, I want to catch the varmint as bad as you do. I'll let you work with me—if we can make a deal."

"What kind of a deal?"

"You just forget Frank Osborn's autopsy."

"That's Tuesday," I said, "and we're going to do it. Are we pals until then?"

"It depends."

It was almost 6 when I entered the Blue Ridge Hotel. There was no mail for me at the desk, and I had a lonely dinner. At 8:30, when it was dark and the city lights probed the purplish-black sky, I returned to my silent room, put on pajamas and lay on the bed. I picked up a book and tried to read. After Chapter Four, I laid it aside, closed my eyes and presently I slept.

A shrill jangling awoke me. I blinked in the brightness and wondered what had happened to the night. My bedside light glowed with a feeble yellowness against the sun at the window. I brought my wrist watch around in front of my face, focused my eyes. Six o'clock. I reached for the ringing phone beside the bed, almost dropped it, and then got it to my ear. "Hello." My voice was scratchy. "Bennett?" The voice was thin and shrill and unfamiliar. I grunted a word, probably "Yes."

"This is Abner."

"Oh, hello, Sheriff."

"I got trouble, son."

"Trouble?" I mumbled.

"You see, there was a wreck on the highway early this morning, and the state patrol called me, seeing as how it happened in the county. Young punk driving without a license smacked into a semitrailer on a curve. Nobody hurt, but I had to lock the kid up and that's why I went to the jail. My desk was busted open and the bullet was gone, the slug that killed Alice. There goes our evidence against Alice's killer."

I could almost see his crafty yellow-toothed leer, and suddenly I was wide awake. "They broke in to the jail?"

"Yep. I didn't have no prisoners, but I locked my desk and the office door. They pried 'em open."

"I suppose the whole town knew you had the bullet?"

"The people in this town know more about my business than I do."

"Well, cheer up," I said. "It wasn't any use to you—not without the gun that fired it."

When I was dressed and ready to leave I paused, wondering if I had forgotten anything. Suddenly I knew that I had, and that it had been in the back of my brain for some time, probably since Saturday night when the bullet had crashed through my car window.

I went to my bag, took out a .38 revolver, checked to make certain that the cylinder was full and that the safety was on, and placed it muzzle down in the inside pocket of my coat. Since working for the Commission I'd gotten out of the habit of carrying it, but its weight beneath my arm was familiar and comforting. I have never used a shoulder holster. If you needed a gun, it didn't matter much how you carried it; a fast draw was no help for Wild Bill Hickok when Jack McCall shot him in the back as he sat at the poker table holding the dead man's hand of aces and eights.

Broyles Law

Passes Its

First Court Test

CHICAGO (UP)—Illinois' Broyles law requiring non-Communist oaths for teachers passed its first court test Saturday when a state circuit court judge upheld its constitutionality.

Judge Julius Miner in his ruling said the oath is "not violative of any constitutional provision."

"A teacher who is devoid of loyalty to our government is not to be trusted in so sensitive an area as education to youth. In the desperate battle for youths' minds, the state must protect the integrity of its schools against their perversion to subversive ends," Miner said.

Attorneys for three Chicago teachers who brought the court action said they would appeal the ruling to the Illinois Supreme Court.

The teachers, Mrs. Shirley Lens, Mrs. Sara Pickus and Albert Soglin, have been working but have not been paid because they have not signed the oath.

School board attorney Frank B. Schneberger said the ruling may require that the teachers be dismissed. He said the matter would be studied during the coming week.

Miner said that the oath requirement does not infringe on civil liberties and attacked the "treachery" of Communists who claim that loyalty oaths are an invasion of civil liberty.

Jailed Here

Hick Stewart, who lives four miles south of Carrier Mills, was jailed early today by Deputy Sheriff Jeff Stricklin.

Stricklin received a call at 2 a. m. to go to the Cecil "Bill" Pyle place a half mile south of Carrier Mills, that a prowler had been around for a couple of hours. After considerable search Stewart was found.

The University of Illinois opened in 1868 with 50 students. In the 1954-55 school year it had 24,375 students.

Thinking
It Over—
For Lent

By Robt. Dieffenbacher, D.D.

Written for NEA Service

The medical and scientific brains of America have discovered cures for ailments which until recently caused untold suffering, crippling effects and even death. The life-span has been lengthened many years.

In contrast to this encouragement we are faced with a scandalous increase in juvenile delinquency and crime generally.

Our social, spiritual and moral conditions are suffering because we are leaving to others the personal responsibilities which we should assume ourselves. The law cannot change people, nor can punishment in penal institutions raise the moral standards of a nation.

The schools of America cannot accomplish the whole task of teaching social responsibility. The organized church cannot be held solely accountable for the spiritual well-being of our nation.

Hope for a solution to our moral and spiritual problems lies with us as parents, friends and citizens who accept personal responsibility. We must direct our own lives and aid others through taking religion seriously.

Let us pray and work for advancement in understanding God and His will. Surely we need this spiritual progress as much as scientific progress.

Molly Pitcher took her husband's place in the Battle of Monmouth in 1780, as he lay dying beside his cannon.

To Institute Junior Woodmen Club at Galatia

A junior club of Modern Woodmen of America will be instituted in Galatia at a meeting tomorrow, according to an announcement made by William Carlock, Norris City, the fraternal society's local district manager. It will be the 88th such club to be organized in southern Illinois, Mr. Carlock said.

The new group, which will be organized as a part of the Galatia adult camp No. 7415, will be supervised by Mrs. Rosetta W. Tucker, Galatia, as junior director.

John A. Gul, Galatia, is camp secretary. Mr. Carlock, who will have charge of organization ceremonies, stated that the names of 60 children of this community under 16 years of age will appear on the charter roll.

He also said that the institution of the club will introduce a new type of recreational activity and citizenship training for the children of the area, as junior clubs devote their efforts toward the training of youth along civic, educational and social lines. Meetings are held monthly, with programs placing special emphasis on citizenship training, community cooperation, and recreation geared to all age groups. More than 350 such clubs are now functioning in the

Danube Floods Areas In Germany, Austria

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The muddy Danube river, swollen from rain and melting ice and snow, inched into the streets of south German and Austrian towns today.

Flood crews sandbagged riverbanks and homes and evacuated families from homes threatened with disaster if the waters rise much higher.

The Danube was over its banks at Passau, Germany, and Linz, Austria, and still rising. At Passau it was at the 33-foot level, still well under the 47 feet recorded in July, 1954, when 24 persons lost their lives.

Indiana Only Obstacle To Iowa Title; Hawks At Peak Against Illinois

CHICAGO (AP) — Only Indiana stands between Iowa and its second straight Big Ten basketball championship.

The Hawks, after losing five of their first eight games this season, proved themselves champions by winning the games that counted.

Coach Bucky O'Connor's veterans reached a razor-sharp peak in humbling Illinois, second-ranked team in the nation, 96-72, Saturday before a national television audience.

The Hawks play Indiana tonight with two objectives in mind. The No. 1 goal is their second straight Big Ten championship. The second goal is a berth in the NCAA tournament and a crack at San Francisco.

A victory tonight would give Iowa a 13-1 record in conference play, and then it wouldn't make any difference how Illinois fares with Northwestern.

Elsewhere on the Big Ten front, Purdue finished its most successful season since 1945 by defeating Indiana, 73-71, Saturday. It gave the Boilermakers a 9-5 record and assured them of fourth place. Joe Saxon's 23 points gave him a season mark of 420, topping the old Purdue record of 399 set by Carl McNulty in 1952.

Minnesota defeated Michigan, 86-72, for its fifth win against eight defeats. Ohio State swamped Michigan State, 96-84, and Wisconsin edged Northwestern, 76-70.

Robin Freeman poured in 43 points to increase his Big Ten average to 32.4 in 13 games. He out-died his closest scoring rival, Julius McCoy, by 22 points.

In other Big Ten finales tonight, Michigan State travels to Michigan and Ohio State is at Minnesota.

Western Among Favored Teams In NAIA Tourney

MACOMB, Ill. (AP)—Western Illinois is among the favored teams entered in the 1956 NAIA basketball tournament opening in Kansas City, Mo., March 12.

The Leatherneck quintet reached the national tournament the hard way by squeaking past Wheaton, 84-83, in the NAIA district finals Saturday at Wheaton. In winning, Western broke a 24-game Wheaton victory streak.

This marks the third straight year Western has entered the national tourney. In 1954 the Macomb cagers finished second and last year they were in third place.

Western narrowly missed losing the trip to Kansas City when the final minute of play. Only a stall preserved the one-point margin.

Tournament pairings of the 32 best small college teams in the country will be announced later this week.

Michigan Wins 17th Big Ten Indoor Track Championship

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — American Olympic track prospects dimmed rather than shone Saturday in the 46th annual Big Ten indoor championship, won by Michigan for the 17th time.

Only one conference record was broken and most performances were disappointing, while a notable Olympic prospect, Northwestern's Jim Golliday, was sidelined for the rest of the indoor season by a pulled muscle.

Golliday pulled the biceps-ferromus in the back of his right leg 10 yards from the finish line of the 60-yard dash and sprawled in the cinders after winning the heat. He was scratched from the finals of the event but Dr. James S. Feurig said he would be able to run again in three weeks.

"He should be able to run outdoors," Feurig said. "But he'll have a slow start in the spring. It appears to me that he should come back nicely though."

Smokey Says:

Cinderella Teams Face Stern Tests in Sectionals; Shawneetown Indians Will Meet Carmi Bull Dogs

By United Press

Cinderella teams Shawneetown, Lincoln, Edwardsville and Peoria Central appear to have the sternest tests among the top 15 clubs which survived for sectional play in the Illinois high school basketball tournament.

The underdog and 10th-ranked Shawneetown Indians collide with Carmi's Bull Dogs at Harrisburg. Carmi bounced Mount Carmel in regional play after the Golden Aces jolted out Mount Vernon from the tourney.

Carmi and Shawneetown have run up comparable scores against Grayville and Crossville during the season.

Ninth-ranked Lincoln faces a big hurdle in Springfield. Lanphier at Jacksonville. Lanphier was one of two teams to whip the Railsplitters during regular season play.

Southwest vs. Mid-State

Edwardsville, champion of the rugged Southwest conference, will face Mid-State champion Litchfield. The Purple Panthers have a 21-7 record and a ball club that improved steadily as the season went along.

Peoria Central, rated sixth in the state, will try to make it three straight against Peoria Spalding at Peoria. But the Spalding Irish own a 22-3 season mark and figure to make it close.

Galesburg's first sectional encounter is against Little York, one of five district champs still around. Little York has lost only once in 28 games.

The rest of the surviving ranked clubs should have easier going off the records of their opponents. But Mattoon, which played in the top flight Big 12 conference competition, could give Effingham St. Anthony, ranked 15th, a surprise.

Quincy, rated 7th in the state, should polish off Pleasant Hill. Moline, 12th, opens against a Sterling club that has run hot and cold. Bloom, 13th, and the South Suburban champ, will be heavily favored over Normal Community.

Pinckneyville, should have the horses to take out Belleville, another Southwest toughie.

Titleholders Should Win

Defending champion Rockford West shouldn't have any trouble with little Forreston. Herrin figures to race by Mount City in its sectional opener.

If all these rated clubs survive, most will find things tougher in the final sectional game and in the "super-sectionals" which follow March 13.

Either Galesburg or Moline will have to be eliminated to play at the East Moline sectional. Pinckneyville or Herrin will vie for honors in the Pinckneyville sectional if both reach the finals.

So only 10 ranked teams could conceivably reach the "super-sectionals." Four more then would be certain to fall before the eight-team finals at Champaign March 16-17.

The Rockford and East Moline sectional champs go to Moline for the "super-sectional," which would mean elimination of either Rockford West or Galesburg or Moline, assuming two of them get beyond the sectionals.

The same situation applies in the Salem Super, where either Effingham St. Anthony or Edwardsville would have to be eliminated. Pinckneyville or Herrin would have to remove either Shawneetown, Pinckneyville or Herrin; and the Springfield Super, where either Quincy or Lincoln would reach trail's end.

But that, of course, is several games off.

Sports Summary

Open from 10:00 to 1:00 and 2:00 to 5:00.
No undressing. It takes but a moment.

The Saline county-wide tuberculosis checkup, scheduled to begin tomorrow will be only as effective as the degree of public cooperation given to it, and the degree of cooperation will depend largely on the public's understanding of the campaign and confidence in those sponsoring it.
This survey is being undertaken jointly by the Egyptian Health department and the Saline County Tuberculosis association. It will present to every citizen of Saline County an extraordinary opportunity to take stock of their own health and that of their families. By taking advantage of this chance to reassess yourselves of your freedom from TB infection, or to learn of any infection at an early stage, you can prevent a serious illness, or forestall a serious illness if not fatal affliction, those who participate in the campaign will be serving not only their own interests but the best interests of the whole community.

Libya Approaches Court Crisis as Both Wives Of King are Expecting

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—The desert kingdom of Libya headed steadily toward a constitutional crisis today, both the wives of King Idriss are expecting.
Court experts were pondering the problem of which child will become the crown prince—and eventually the king—if both are boys.
Queen Aliya's child is expected first, but she is Idriss' second wife—married last year after his first wife, Fatima, failed to bear Idriss an heir.
Aliya proved fecund from the start, but shortly after she announced she was having a baby Queen Fatima announced proudly she, too, was with child.

Hopes Dimming For Tax Cut, Rep. Martin Says

House Leader
Blames Additions to Eisenhower Budget

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr. says "hope is gradually dimming" for a tax cut this year.
He blamed Democratic additions to President Eisenhower's budget. Martin told the United Press Sunday — the 31st anniversary of his membership in the House — that "at the start of this session of Congress I was quite hopeful there could be a tax cut."
"But that hope is gradually dimming," the Massachusetts Republican declared.
He said the Democratic-controlled House Appropriations Committee may have set some kind of a precedent Friday when it added $54 million dollars to Mr. Eisenhower's budget requests on two big money bills.
One bill, which is scheduled for House action today, carries 2.3 billion dollars for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. It was cut 67 million dollars below the President's request.
But the committee added 221 million dollars to the second measure.

May Open Tax Loopholes

Martin also noted that the omnibus farm bill, now being debated by the Senate, probably will call for more spending than was estimated by the President in his new budget.
A House Commerce subcommittee will open hearings Tuesday on another threat to the administration budget: A bill that would give one million railway workers a tax cut by exempting their retirement fund contributions from income taxes.
Congressional tax experts predicted the strongly-backed bill would set a precedent for opening tax loopholes. They said it also would eventually lead to exempting all public and private social security contributions from taxation.
The President in January handed Congress a precariously-balanced budget providing for 65.9 billion dollars in spending. He estimated revenues at 66.3 billion dollars leaving a slim budget surplus of 400 million dollars.
The administration has frowned on a tax cut until some debt reduction has been achieved. But there has been considerable discussion of the possibility among congressmen who consider it good election-year material.

Deny Hearing For Roger Touhy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today denied a hearing to Roger (The Terrible) Touhy, Chicago gangster of the prohibition era, who is seeking to invalidate two convictions that will keep him in jail for the rest of his life.
The court acted in a brief order, with no opinion.
Touhy was convicted in 1934 on charges of kidnapping for ransom John (Jake The Barber) Factor; and in 1943 for the crime of aiding a prisoner to escape the state penitentiary. He drew a 99-year sentence for the first offense and 199 years for the second. The one-time mobster is now 57 and gray haired.

Asphalt, a major road-building ingredient today, was used by Noah to waterproof the Ark.

Paul Powell's Record as a Legislator:

Paul Powell has always based his campaigns on the slogan:
"His Record as a Legislator is Your Guarantee."

Here is Paul Powell's record, as compiled by the Illinois Legislative Council:

Only Sponsor of Bills	165
Co-Sponsor of Bills	512
TOTAL	677
Passed the House	384
Failed in the House	293
Passed the Senate	323
Failed in the Senate	61
BECAME A LAW	290
Vetoed by Governor	33

In summarizing Rep. Powell's legislative record, the Legislative Council made the following comments to Mr. Powell on February 6, 1956:

The bills successfully sponsored by you, which probably are most noteworthy include:

- 1—Reapportionment of the state as directed by the constitutional amendment. (Mr. Powell opposed reapportionment, but voted for a measure providing that the voters decide the issue. He fought for defeat of the proposition at the polls, but it carried, and he thereafter worked for an equitable reapportionment arrangement.)
- 2—Improvements in the Agricultural Premium Fund and creation of the Fair and Exposition Fund.
- 3—Strengthening the position of Southern Illinois University.
- 4—A variety of improvements in the ordinary operation of the state government.
- 5—Continued interest in state support for the public schools.
- 6—Inauguration of a program of Federal-State aid for the permanently disabled.

ADDITIONAL COMMENTS

Business and Labor

Many of the bills you have sponsored reflected an attempt to improve the economic health of the state, particularly southern Illinois. Your bills reflect a considerable amount of attention for the coal mining industry and coal miners of the state.

Public Health and Welfare

One of the fields of legislation that received more than usual attention in the form of sponsored legislation was that of health and welfare. Here your major emphasis was upon the introduction of legislation seeking to ease the lot of the widowers of the state.

For example, there was a continuing attempt to raise old age pensions, to repeal legislation which authorized the state to seek recovery from the estate of recipients, and to increase the number of oldsters entitled to receive old age pensions.

Education

We find that you have sponsored many bills having to do with the public school system and each of these, of course, is important. As far back as 1943 your House Bill 268 provided for financing school lunch programs partially from state funds. While this bill did not pass, the program has, of course, been instituted.

The level of state aid to schools and the basis used for apportioning the amount available among the various schools have been the subject of numerous bills that you sponsored or co-sponsored.

Agriculture and Conservation

Indication of the interest shown by you in agriculture may be found in a number of proposals seeking to improve the agricultural aspects of the State and especially that of southern Illinois.

Motor Vehicles and Roads

An ever increasing problem in state government, especially since the end of World War II has been that of providing better roads and better control and regulation of motor vehicles using these roads. You have been interested in this legislation.

State and Local Government

Many persons would perhaps consider that some of the most important legislation you have sponsored relates to the organization of state government and its day-to-day functioning.

Some Other Measures

The bills you have sponsored cover many other subjects.
